VIENNA ARTS SOCIETY

115 Pleasant St NW, Vienna
www.viennaartsociety.org

Caffe Amouri is open for business on Church Street in downtown Vienna. We have created a partnership with this local business and will host a series of exhibits throughout the rest of the year.

The Art Center will be hosting classes and workshops this fall for children to adults, please visit our web site for more details. www.viennaartsociety.org

Through September 25

September is our Annual Themed Show and this year it is themed "Pieces and Parts." Our goal is to attract artists that do a little of everything, including but not limited to using mixed media. The judging this year will not be one judge but a series of judges! Anyone and everyone that visits the art center is encouraged to share their opinion and we will present a People's Choice Award to the winning piece/artist at the end of the show.

October

Featured artist and new member Irina Avalova. Her work is modern, fresh and bright. If you're a resident of Vienna, than you may have seen a portion of her piece on the cover of the Town Calendar this year! Her reception is still yet to be determined, so please keep posted by checking out our web site for future information about her's and other's future events, shows, receptions and classes.

Outside the Art Center and the VAS Gallery, they are hosting an exhibit with the Life with Cancer Family Center in Fairfax through October 28th. Please feel free to visit the Center- they would be welcome to give a tour of their facility, Life with Cancer Family Center, 8411 Pennell Street, Fairfax, VA 22031. We have an open to the public reception held at their location, Thursday Sept. 16th, 4pm-6pm. A portion of art sales will benefit them and their causes.

December

2, 2010 - January 8, 2011

Reception and Gallery Talk (free to the public):
December 2, 7 - 9 pm

Emerson Gallery: Contemporary Figurative Surrealism

Like the traditional surrealists, this group of artists incorporate unexpected juxtapositions and absurd logic into their work. By utilizing the human figure, they humanize the work as well, bringing it into the realm our shared human experience. Focusing on approximately six artists, the show was put together by guest curator, artist and teacher Rula Jones.

Atrium Gallery: Paintings by Cindy Neuschwander
Richmond artist Cindy Neuschwander shows intimate encaustic abstractions balancing movement and stillness that evolve slowly through both a conscious and unconscious mining of images.

Ramp Gallery: Monoprints by Stephanie George
These large-scale monoprints by Virginia artist Stephanie George are derived from images drawn directly from her dreams.

January 20 - March 5, 2011

Reception January 20, 7 - 9 PM

Emerson Gallery: Beyond the Pale

A curated multi-media exhibit featuring works that focus on unrestrained color as both subject and statement.

Atrium Gallery: New Paintings by Bill Gusky
Imagery from the unconscious mind is depicted in a skillful, yet free flowing style by this artist who combines two and three dimensions.

Ramp Gallery: Paintings by Deborah Addison Coburn

Abstract paintings based on landscape and the harmony of color interaction.
