

Upcoming Exhibits at McLean Project for the Arts

December 3, 2009 – January 9, 2010

Reception and Gallery Talk, December 3, 7 – 9 PM

Emerson Gallery:

As Likely As Not: Unusual Objects for Another Perspective

This exhibition, curated by MPA Exhibitions Director Nancy Sausser, will feature the work of four sculptors. These artists are object makers, all adept at bringing the world of their imagining into three-dimensional reality. Composed of a wide-ranging array of materials and employing as many disparate approaches, the works share a quirky sense of purposeful purposelessness and a no holds barred attitude.

Atrium Gallery

Hybrids of Tutela: New Works by Melissa Dickenson

Baltimore artist Melissa Dickenson exhibits works comprised of acrylic paint and ink on cut paper, mounted on acrylic backing. The resulting pieces are uniquely shaped and dimensional, moving out from the wall and breaking free of the traditional rectangular picture plane. A fantastical world inhabited by imaginary flora and fauna is created within the confines of these flowing, meandering and intricate structures, wholly original and at once both sweet and slightly sinister.

Ramp Gallery

McLean Art Society Juried Exhibition

An eclectic mix of work by members of the McLean Art Society.

January 21 – March 6, 2010

Reception January 21, 7 – 9 PM

Emerson Gallery

New Synergy: Sculpture by Nicole Fall

This exhibit showcases dynamic human-scale mixed-media sculpture by artist Nicole Fall.

Atrium Gallery (tentative)

Terry Schupbach Gordon and Royal Rhodes

Handmade book and poetry

Ramp Gallery

New Works by Grechen Schemerhorn

Handmade paper wall works and hanging sculpture

March 10 - 21, 2010
Reception Sunday, March 14
Youth Art Show/Elementary

March 25 – April 4, 2010
Reception Thursday, March 25th
Youth Art Show/Middle and High

April 15 – June 5, 2010
Reception April 15, 7 – 9 PM

Everybody Knows This is Nowhere: A Photographic and Video Installation by Jeremy Drummond

A compilation of works by Richmond artist Jeremy Drummond exploring how communities evolve within the seemingly homogeneous landscape of suburbia.

Atrium and Ramp Galleries

Works by Michael Mansfield featuring both wall mounted video pieces and large scale drawings exploring a sense of place.

June 17 - July 31, 2010
Reception, June 17, 7 – 9 PM

Emerson and Atrium Galleries
Fantastic Journeys

A Juried exhibition of multi-media works inspired by the spirit of adventure, exploration, or utopian pursuits.

Ramp Gallery
MPA/Corcoran Student Exhibition